Dear Prayer Warriors, Family and Friends,

We had another busy but blessed week here in Botswana. It has rained, and rained, and rained...and rained some more. Everything is lush. For the first time in ten years the water reservoir is completely full and overflow is going across the dam. On Friday evening Cindy and I paid the security guard the equivalent of $5 to get through the gate and get a personalized tour of the dam (read between the lines on that one). It was well worth it for the view and to see the abundance of water in a place that is normally so dry and desolate. We had gutters installed on the house this week and added an outside water tank (5000) liters to "catch" the rain. This enables us to store water so that it does not have to be bought when the dry season comes again.

Attendance at church today was down with only 47 but we were still blessed with 9 first time visitors from the community. It's end of the month and everyone gets paid during this time of the month so there's a mass exodus of people traveling, etc. Yesterday a group from the church gathered and we passed out 400 invitations to our March 5th kick off Sunday. See attached flyer. Today we saw the fruits of our labors and we're excited to see what God will do next week.

That's Sunday Safari for this week. We love you all and appreciate your prayers and support.
