

Seth Thompson <mrsetht@gmail.com>

You gotta laugh...

Cindy Haley <emailmrscindy@gmail.com>

Wed, Feb 14, 2018 at 3:33 PM

To: emailmrscindy <emailmrscindy@gmail.com>

Bcc: mrsetht@gmail.com

Since we just issued a Sunday night safari last week, and a prayer letter, and a one year anniversary update video I did not write a Sunday safari update this week. But this is too good to miss. A good laugh and a lot of blessing already this week.

One of the young men from our church, Offentse, was in the main police station this morning and saw an officer reading from the Bible in the book of Genesis. The Bible was one of those that we have distributed to all the officers in that particular station. So he walked up to the officer and said, "So who killed Cain?" (I think he meant to say Abel but it may have been an attempt at some humor - ha ha). The officer looked up from his reading and in all seriousness said, "You'll have to go down and speak with Inspector Yakubu. He is in charge of murder investigations!!

Oh my!! Are you laughing???? Praise God you have to love it!

Tomorrow afternoon we will be preaching at a college that trains the public school teachers for Botswana and distributing 455 New Testaments to the entire faculty and student population. Please pray for God's blessing and the filling of the Holy Spirit.

Next Tuesday morning we will be preaching and distributing New Testaments to 1100 Special Forces personnel. These are an elite unit of military trained police officers responsible for civil security. It's an amazing opportunity. Please pray for souls to be saved in both meetings.

God is honoring your prayers and faith as we labor together!!! Praise His mighty name!

Bro. Mike and Mrs. Cindy